

Session:	SESSION PLAN
Topic:	Enabling Environment and Institutions
Rationale:	Addressing the growing challenges associated with water resources management will require daring and difficult changes to existing institutions and policies governing water resources. Far reaching and multi-sectoral approaches will be critical if we are to overcome inefficient use of our water resources. This will require the establishment of a proper enabling environment that ensures the rights of users and provides the appropriate level of protection for the resource. Policies, legislation, establishment of governing bodies at various levels and knowledge management are all part of ensuring that the objectives of IWRM are met. This Session will provide an overview of the enabling environment (policy, legislation, participation) and institutions necessary for the effective implementation of IWRM.
Duration:	40 minute Presentation – 50 minute discussion
Objectives:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Provide a broad overview and thus a setting for examining effective and practical policy, legal, and institutional frameworks for IWRM. 2. Outline key elements of content of IWRM policy and the process to make people from different professional backgrounds aware of each other's interests and insights
Course Material:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Topic Synthesis: provided separately • Power Point Presentation: provided separately
Resource Person:
Learning Methods:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • On site learning; • Offsite preparation assignments and readings
Background Reading:
References:
Other Links:	